“Envisioning the Past, Innovating the Future” Technologies for Preserving Historic Places

Thursday, September 21, 2017 - 7PM

The 2017 Sanford Historic Preservation Lecture Series

Featuring: Morris Hylton III, Director, University of Florida Historic Preservation Program

Evolving technologies continue to change our lives in dramatic ways on an almost daily basis. There seems to be no area of our world that has been untouched by technology, including historic preservation. Join as we learn how historic building owners are using new technology to create three dimensional models that can be used for a myriad of purposes. The visual models that result from these scans can be used in every aspect of a historic preservation project, while saving money and ensuring an accurate depiction of the property. Are you a homeowner planning a historic rehab project? Are you a practitioner who is concerned with disaster preparedness? If so, this lecture is for you.

Morris (Marty) is Director of Historic Preservation and Associate Scholar at the University of Florida's College of Design, Construction and Planning where his research focuses on community engagement, 3D imaging technology, and preserving heritage sites of the recent past, particularly postwar modern architecture and resources.

The lecture is free and open to the public; light refreshments will be served. The Historic Sanford Welcome Center is located at 230 E. 1st Street, Sanford FL 32771.
